

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

SIR GEORGE CAREW'S SCROLL OF ARMS, 1588.

WITH ADDITIONS FROM JOSEPH HOLLAND'S
COLLECTION OF ARMS, 1579.

DEVON antiquaries have always taken a great interest in this Scroll of Arms, for, independently of its value as an heraldic manuscript, and on account of the many references to churches in which shields of arms were to be found at the time of its compilation, it tends to show that George Carew, Earl of Totnes, in spite of the many occupations of his busy life, did not forget the county of his birth.

There has been some confusion in the identification of the person whose name is connected with this manuscript. Some have considered that it was Sir George Carew (cir. 1550-1612) the diplomatist and Master of the Wards, second son of Thomas Carew, of Antony, and younger brother of Richard, the author of the "History of Cornwall," but I cannot find that he took any interest either in the County of Devon, or in heraldic or other antiquarian pursuits. But with the other Sir George Carew, born 1555, knighted 1 Feb., 1585-86, Baron Carew of Clopton, 4 May, 1605, and Earl of Totnes, 5 Feb., 1625-26, it was very different. Although an active soldier and politician, he had considerable antiquarian tastes, was the friend of Camden, Cotton and Bodley, and Sir Anthony Weldon calls Sir Walter Raleigh,

Sir George Carew and the Lord Grey, "very able men as the world had."* After a voyage which, as a youth, he made in the ship of Sir Humphrey Gilbert, he seems to have had nothing to do with his native county, but that he had not forgotten it is evident from his taking the title of his Earldom from the Devonshire town which gives the name to the Archdeaconry to which his father was collated, 28 April, 1534. Sir George Carew (particulars of whose life and career will be found in D. N. B., Vol. IX., pp. 51-53, in the various authorities quoted there, and in Prince's Worthies, ed. 1701, p. 204; ed. 1810, p. 168) spent much of his leisure time in compiling family pedigrees, and in other literary work, and large collections in his own handwriting still remain.

In the British Museum is a folio volume [Harleian 2129] containing a collection of manuscripts, and at folio 191 begins "Sir George Carewe's Scrowl." Beyond the title, however, there is nothing, so far as I know at present, to connect the MS. with Sir George Carew. It is true that Mr. Edward Leven states† that it was prepared for him, and that the manuscript, the only copy as far as I know in existence except the one I have—which is a recent transcript—is in the handwriting of Thomas Challoner, Ulster King of Arms, who died in 1598. If this was so, it was completed before Sir George obtained his peerage, for its date is 1588. So much of the gallant knight's time having been spent in Ireland, as a soldier and administrator, might account for Sir George associating himself with the King of Arms in the compilation of this roll. But there is nothing to support this theory. The existing manuscript is a copy from the original, or a copy to which he had access, by Randle Holme. It is contained in a folio volume, entitled "Funeral Orders and Church Monuments," by R. Holme. The Carew Scroll is bound up with Church Notes, principally from Cheshire and Lancashire, in which neighbourhood Holme was specially interested. It is written on similar paper, with the same water-mark as the rest of the volume of which it forms a part, it commences part way down a page, and the heading "Sir George Carewe's Scrowl,"

* "Complete Peerage," G.E.C., Vol. VII., p. 413.

† "Jour. Brit. Arch. Assoc.," Vol. XVIII., 1862, p. 143.

etc., is squeezed into a small space.* It is, therefore, evident that this is a copy, and not in the writing of Ulster—whose widow, however, Randle Holme married—and so far, as I have said, I am unable to give any reason for connecting this Roll with Sir George Carew.

It is very certain that, although there are variations, the compiler of "Carewe's Scrowl" had before him the earlier manuscript, Harleian 5871. This is also a folio volume containing pedigrees and descents of, among those of other counties, Devon families, being the Heralds' Visitations of 1565-1574. At folio 45 commences an armorial, extending over 57 pages and containing 1,071 shields, all carefully tricked, 20 on a page. This is believed to be the earliest heraldic manuscript relating to Devon in existence. The volume has this heading: "In this booke is conteyned a collection of armes of the gentlemen of Devonshire, 5^o Jan^r, 1579. Joseph Holland, 1579. 21 El. R." Joseph Holland, was the third son of William Holland, of Weare, by Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Halse, of Kenedon.

It is curious that in some cases the earlier manuscript is more correct, in others the later. In both it would seem that the copyist was not well acquainted with the topography of Devon, and often fell into error in the writing of names of places and churches.

The frontispiece given is from Carew's Manuscript: "The armes wth the mantle, helme, and creste of Andrew Holland, of Weare, in the County of Devon, apertaine are heare sett fourth according unto the Seale of an auncient deede bearinge date 24 of Ed. 3, Anno Dⁿ 1350, w^h deede remayneth in the custodye of the sayd Andrewe, Dom. 1588." This shield occupies the whole page, and the description given is in the same hand-writing as the rest of the manuscript. There are other drawings of Holland shields in the volume. The quarterings are:—

(1) Az. semée de lis, a lion ramp. gard. arg. Holland. (2) Per cross or. and gu. four escallop shells counterchanged. Metsted. (3) Az. three bendlets arg. Merton. (4) Erm. a bend gu. Walleys. (5) Gu. a chevron or. betw. three bezants. Baa or

* Mr. Arthur J. Jewers has been good enough to re-examine the manuscript for me, and what I have stated is the result of his careful examination.

Bathe. (6) Gu. a fesse nebulée arg. Appledor. In the centre, over all a mullet for diff. arg. Crests—(1) From fire ppr (? rays. or.) an arm embowed, vested gu. cuff ar. the hand ppr, grasping an eagle's leg erased at the thigh, of the third, on the elbow a mullet for diff. (2) From a crest coronet gu. a panache of feathers, per pale arg. and sa. charged with a mullet for diff.

In Harl. MSS. 1080, the arms of Holland, of Weare, are given with eight quarterings, the two additional coats being : (2) Gu. ten bezants a canton erm. Zouche ; and (8) Gu. a chev. betw. three doves, said to be Page, but really belonging to the family of Mewey or Meauy. A ninth coat is given in another Harleian Manuscript, Erm. a chev. sa. betw. three wings. gu. for Mewe, which is apparently an error.

In the manuscript in many cases the ordinaries are roughly drawn, as in this example :—

Ar. on a  b. 3 stags' heades cabo. or. bet. 3  b.
I print this :—

Ar. on a chevron b. 3 stags' heades caboshed or, between 3 lozenges b.

In some places there are little sketches of the charges. These are given in words, as the drawings are not worth reproducing, but there are a few large shields in trick, of which we give engravings.

Throughout the manuscript b. is used to indicate the tincture blue or azure, never az.

I have printed within square brackets [] with the letter "H." after the entries in "Carewe's Scrowl" any variations or additions of value from Holland's MS., and I propose to add a description of all the shields given by Holland, and not found in Carew ; so that really the whole of the contents of both Manuscripts will be here printed. Some notes will complete the work.

The reader will observe that everything printed in italics and between brackets, is either from Holland or editorial ; all else is from Harleian 2129.

J. BROOKING ROWE.

NOTES.

- 2 This shield is not now to be found in Crediton church. Westcote does not mention it as being in Crediton church in his time. It is no doubt the coat of Henry Marshall, Bishop of Exeter, 1191-1203. Isaac gives the blazon as here, but Westcote says the lion was per pale or and vert. It will be unnecessary in these notes to refer to the loss of many armories mentioned by Carew and Holland, which neglect and restoration, as well as "time and envy," as Westcote says, have wrought havoc with, as with many other things in our churches.
- 11 In Plymstock church is, or was, a panel with the arms of the Duke of Bedford. Novo Mercato, is James Newmarsh, whose daughter Isabel married Ralph Bedford, 1215-16, his father having bought her wardship and that of her sister.
- 13 Mr. Poole's book. This is constantly referred to. It was no doubt the Manuscript compiled by Sir William Pole, and mentioned by Prince (1st ed., p. 506; 2nd ed., p. 638). It contained, Prince says, the coats of arms of the Devonshire gentry drawn with a pen, wherein is the blazon of the coat, and the names of the persons by whom born.
- 14 Holbeton church is called Holberton by Carew, and Halberton by Holland. The coat is not to be found in either church now.
- 15 Kennedon House, in the parish of Sherford, the ancient seat of the Prales, afterwards of the Hals family.
- 17 Pusnedge-Pusned is Puslinch, the seat of the Uptons, in the parish of Newton Ferrers, now of the Yonges.
- 19 By Plympton Abbey church is meant the Church of St. Mary, Plympton, to distinguish it from the church of Plympton proper, St Thomas of Canterbury, now commonly known as St. Maurice. The Church of the Priory was destroyed long before the date of this MS.
- 20 Mr. Hooker and Mr. Hoker are frequently mentioned as giving our authors information. This was John Hooker, alias Vowell, 1530-1601, the well-known Chamberlain of the City of Exeter. See Note to No. 80.
- 23 This is among the Russell quarterings in Plymstock church. See note to No. 11.
We notice throughout that the compilers of the Manuscripts frequently obtained information from the College of Arms, and they generally mention their informant by the name of the office he filled, and not by his proper name.
Mr. Richmond seems to have helped very constantly in the compilation of this manuscript. He was Richard Lee, nominated Richmond Herald in 1584 and appointed Clarenceux in 1594.
- 25 Mr. Chester. Edmund Knight, Chester Herald from 1574 to 1592, when he was advanced to the dignity of Norry King at Arms.
- 27 Mr. Treswell, or Cresswell, is always, I think, mentioned by his surname and not by his office. He was Blue Mantle, Pursuivant, and afterwards Somerset Herald.
- 28 Bosswell. This is "Workes of Armorie deuyded into three bookes entitled the Concord of Amorie, the Armorie of Honor, and of Coates and Creastes collected and gathered by John Boswell, gentleman." It is often quoted: the edition used is the first, 1572. In reference to this coat Boswell says, "And I find a salitre barrey d'arger and azure in a field gules, borne by the name of Wilington."
- 30 The coat of Champernowne is on a seventeenth century ledger stone in good preservation at Modbury, quartered with other coats. The saltire is between twelve billets.

- 33 Mr. Ley. See No. 23.
- 35 Pap. This is probably meant for pass, passage, aisle.
- 40 Mr. Somerset's old roll. Mr. Somerset was either Robert Glover or William Segar, who were Somerset Heralds about this time.
- 47 Probably neither Holbeton or Halberton are intended, as the parishes in the churches of which the Gyll arms were to be found. Holland is the nearest. Harberton is no doubt the second church, but neither in it or in Totnes Church are these arms now to be found. The coat is in a window in Loddiswell Church.
- 48 The reference, Karlaverock, is to the poem of the Seige of Car-laverock, 1300, xxvii. Edw. I., written by Walter of Exeter. It will be noticed that the shield of the Gascon knight, Eurmenions de la Brett, as given in the Seige of Carlaverock, is not the same as that given by Carew and Holland, the poem saying that his banner was entirely red. See Foot-note, p. 11.
- 53 This should be a bendlet gules instead of a bend sa. Mr. Jewers has seen a seventeenth century deed with an impression from a seal, probably two hundred years older, having a shield with a lion debruised, with a bendlet charged with three escallop shells.
- 54 Jewe's Bridge. Mr. P. F. S. Amery writes me with reference to this: "Jew's Bridge has always been a puzzle. Heathfield Station, on the Moreton Hampstead line, is situated close to the bridge; it is six miles from Ashburton on the Exeter road, and enables the road to cross the Bovey river just before it enters the Teign. A causeway connected with the bridge carries the road over a bad bit of bog on the Heathfield. The present bridge is of turnpike build, but evidently the original one of Robertus showed the Heathfield to be crossed, and saved several miles between Ashburton and Chudleigh." Mr. Powle, that is Pole, see No. 13. The name is spelt in various ways—Poll, Pool, Poole and, as here, Powle, never Pole as the modern spelling is; once it is Pooley, but this is probably an error. The spelling seems to indicate the pronunciation at the time. See Note to No. 37.
- 59 William Alley, Bishop of Exeter, 1560-1570.
- 61 This coat is in the church-yard of Whitchurch, near Tavistock.
- 74 Fowelscombe House, in the parish of Ugborough, now the property of the King family.
- 76 This is the coat of Dymocke of Scrivelsley, Co. Lincoln. Mr. C. B., who and whose books are often mentioned, is, there is little question, Clement Burton. He was, we learn from the diary of Philip Wyot, Town Clerk of Barnstaple, some time servant and secretary to Sir John Chichester, of Raleigh and Youlston. Burton lived, Wyot says, a bachelor, and was accounted a wise man and a good scholar, and would buy and have the most part of all new books made, whereby he had a great library. He died 12th Nov., 1593.
- 79 Quite a different coate is given in the Visitations, as quartered for Salle or Sale, by Pyne.
- 89 In the Visitation. This is the Visitation of Devon, 1564, by William Harvey, and references to it are numerous.
- 94 This coat remains carved on the screen in Ugborough Church, but with three bars gemelles instead of two as here given. It impales Sture, and has for crest a heron's head with a snake or an eel in its beak, the lower part entwined about the bird's neck; also with a heron on one side, and a snake (or eel) on the others, as supporters.
- 98 This coat is quartered by Pyne for Salle. See Note to No. 79.
- 105 The coat of Roll is or, on a fess dancetté az. three billets of the second, each charged with a lion rampant of the field as many bezants.

- 111 Tilley was not of Cannington. In the Church of Cannington still remain the arms of Brent, gu. a wyvern displayed arg. in ancient glass and on a brass, in both impaling Pauncefoot of Compton Pauncefoot, Co. Somerset, viz. per fess az. and gu. three fleurs de lis or.
- 113 Mr. C. B. Clement Burton. See Note to No. 76.
- 139 This is still on the Fitz tomb in Tavistock Church.
- 150 This coate remains on the Reynell monuments at East and West Ogwell.
- 151 The coat of Weare, with crosses crosslet fitchee instead of crosses crosslet, is on the Coppleston tomb in Yealmpton Church.
- 197 Bawcombe, in the parish of Ugborough.
- 200 The old coat of Croker in glass is gone, but the brass of Sir John Croker remains in the Church at Yealmpton.
- 206 This coat is not now in Brixton Church. It is on the Stretchleigh Gould and Chudleigh monument in Ermington Church, but the birds there are like blackbirds or magpies.
- 207 Sicles-sickles. On monuments in Comb-in-teign-head Church.
- 208 See Grants and Certificates of Arms, The Genealogist, Vol. xvi., new ser., pag. 265.
- 213 This coat impaled with Courtenay is on the tower of St. Cuthbert's, Wells. Also in the roof of Croscombe Church and in the hall of the house of the Paltons at Croscombe.
- 216 The arms of Wadham are no longer to be found in Crediton Church. They are still in the Churches of Branscombe and St. Stephen's by Saltash.
- 221 I have not been able to ascertain who Mr. Phillipps, whose book is mentioned several times, was.
- 249 This coat of Stretchley is on the monument in Ermington Church. See Jewers: West. Antiquary, Vol. xi., p. 1; Rogers: Notes and Queries for Somerset and Dorset, Vol. vii., p. 91.
- 250 They held the Manor of Sheviock, Co. Cornwall, which went to the Courtenays through the marriage of the heiress.
- 253 Is not this Milford, not Creasy? Milford is arg. three oak leaves slipped ppr. in pale.
- 256 Mr. Jewers writes "It is doubtful if the Garlands of Whitefied ever used this coat. They certainly used, paly of six or. and gu. a chief per pale sa. and of the second, charged on the first with a demi lion ramp. arg. and on the second a chaplet of the fourth."
- 261 Tassels is an error. It should be teazels. Carew has a little drawing of the teazel.
- 262 The arms of Wood of Hareston are on a floor slab in Brixton Church.
- 268 If this is intended for Treffry it should be three thorn trees eradicated as in Fowey Church, not trefoils.
- 272 This coat belongs to Orchard, and used by Calmady; neither family used the arms given in No. 273. Jewers: West: Antiquary, Vol. ix. p. 177.
- 274 This is the coat of Archbishop Abbott, born at Guildford in Surrey. The abbots of Hartland bore the cross and eagles.
- 278 I do not know who Mr. C. Benolt was. Thomas Benolt, Clarenceux, died 1534, but I believe he had issue two daughters only.
- 279 Not in Axminster Church, but in Axmouth Church, on an almost obliterated slab on the pavement.
- 280 The buck should be courant. Haberton is probably meant, not Holbeton.
- 280 One of the family, bearing the same arms, was Lord Mayor of London.
- 281 Is the coat of Isaac intended? It is the same, except that the head is a leopard's, not a buck's.
- 289 These are on the monument in St. Budeaux Church. The heiress married Forbes.

- 290 This is Woodland, quartered by Burell, of Erth, in St. Stephen's by Saltash. This coat appears with that of his own family, on the tomb of Bishop Drokensford in Wells Cathedral. The arms are probably those of Hannyng, anciently of Gloucestershire, but also attributed to Handley. ex rel. Mr. A. J. Jewers.
- 296 This is the coat of Beckington, Bishop of Bath and Wells. It is in ancient stained glass in Wells Cathedral, and is carved in stone in various parts of the Cathedral of Wells and its precincts.
- 300 This is still in the Church of St. Mary, Plympton, in stained glass, impaling Strode.
- 301 This is for Carslake. In the seventeenth century pedigree of Wood, of Hareston, belonging to their representative Mr. Winter-Wood. Hareston is in Brixton parish. The ancient house of the Woods still exists, but much interfered with.
- 303 This remains on two partly obliterated floor-slabs in Holbeton Church and on the Frend monument there; also in modern glass. It is also in Fowey Church.
- 310 Plymouth Church must mean St. Andrew's, Plymouth.
- 311 Efford. Egg Buckland. See Pole's Collections, p. 332.
- 333 This coat, with the fusilee pale, varies a little in blazon. It does not appear to have been used by Hele, although it is entered in the Visitation.
- 348 Carved on a boss in the roof of Tavistock Church.
- 350 The only Champenoune coat in Modbury Church now, is a quarterly one on a ledger stone.
- 351 Stowford, in the parish of Harford. Portions of the old house remain.
- 361 Still in the Church of St. Mary, Plympton.
- 363 Falapit, East Allington. The arms appeared in Brixton Church, as Spriddlestone in that parish, was also a residence of the Fortescues.
- 380 This is really the canting coat of Gorges, the gorge or whirlpool. On the surcoat of the effigy of Sir Theobald Gorges in Tamerton Church the coat is represented by annulets or rings, one within the other. Late representations make it a coil.
- 385 G.L. This appears occasionally. The reference is to the early heraldic book; The Accedens of Armory, by Gerard Leigh. The edition quoted is the third, 1576.
- 387 On the Smyth monument in Totnes Church is a coat, sa. three martlets, but it is not this coat.
- 396 This is in a window in St. Mary's, Plympton.
- 421 This is carved on the capital of a column in West Ogwel Church.
- 426 This should be blazoned erm. a chevron plain betw. two chevronells (? if not couple close) wavy sa.
- 429 This coat is more correctly blazoned as arg. three bunches of ashen keys vert. enclosed by two chevronels sa.
- 433 The chevron should be arg. not az. as here printed. As stated in the Preface, b. for blue, i.e. azure, is used throughout Carew.
- 436 For humetes read humetel.
- 438, 439 These coats are not now in Crediton Church. They all appear variations of arg. three chevronels gul., such as might be borne by younger brothers.
- 442 The field of this coat should be sable not argent. It is right in Holland, 324.
- 452 For corn read com.
- 455 Carlaverock. Sir Thomas de Multon is thus mentioned :—
 E compaignes a cele gent
 Thomas de Multon se fu
 Ce avoit baniere e escu
 De argent ove treis bars de goules.
i.e., in company with these was Thomas de Multon, who had a banner and shield of silver with three red bars. Nicolas: Seige Carlaverock, p. 8.

- 464 For 2 bars gemelles in the second line of this entry read two cottizes.
 484 On a tomb in the Church of Comb-in-teign-head, quartered by Huckmore.
 486 This coat is generally given as that of De Brionis, or of the Barony of Okehampton.
 520 This old pulpit has disappeared, and the arms with it.
 524 The bows should be described as paleways in fess, etc.
 526 These five armorial shields have disappeared from the Hawley brass in Dartmouth Church, but the coat is on a Copleston monument in Tamerton Foliot Church, as one of their quarterings.
 527 This coat remains in St. Andrew's Church, Plymouth, but impaling Fownes. The impalement with Amadas is gone. There is no monument remaining in this church commemorating any member of the family of Amadas, once an important one in the town.
 528 It is very doubtful whether this coat was that of Egerton.
 530 The bolts should be termed erect.
 531 For Risdon the colours are wrong ; they should be reversed.
 534 This coat of Mohun is among the quarterings in the old pedigrees of the Carew family.
 545 In ancient glass in Kelly Church, alone and impaled with Kelly.
 558 Read barry wavy of six, not of b. The family have long used or. three bars wavy.
 562 This coat of Foliot is quartered by Copleston in Tamerton Foliot Church on one of the monuments there.
 568 These two coats are neither of them Kendall of Cornwall, and are not among their quarterings ; but the coat with the dolphins is evidently that of Kendall wrongly coloured ; it should be arg. a chevron bet. three dolphins naant sa, as shown by their monuments and other evidences.
 569 This is not now at Axminster, and although the coat of Scrope, it was probably intended for Carminow, who bore the same coat with the addition of a label gul., Scrope being a North-country family, while Carminowe was a West-country one, on heiress of whom married Courtenay. It is No. 570.
 572 This is on a monument in Loddiswell Church. The bend is or. Not in Holbeton now.
 584 Delete g. in third line of this entry.
 588 The o has dropped out from Walesborough.
 610 The coat of three horse shoes on a bend is gone from Modbury Church, except as a quartering of Champernowne, but it remains in old glass at Beer Ferrers, impaled with Carminowe. The other coat should be arg. on a chevron sa. or. az. between three cinquefoils as many horse shoes or. which remains at St. Pinnock, as a quartering of Coryton, in the church there.
 616 This should be three pairs of keys.
 617 Or. on bend gu. three goats tripp. arg. horns and hoofs of the field. Cheverton.
 618 At St. Stephen's by Saltash, quartered by Burill, on a ledger stone. Gone from St. Mary's, Plympton.
 624 Query, was not this Lampen, arg. on a bend eng. sa. three rams' heads caboshed of the first armed or.
 645 These are the arms of Chedder of Cheddar, Co. Somerset ; they are on a tomb and in ancient glass in the church there.
 664 This coat remains at Plymstock ; it is not at Buckland Monachorum.
 682 On the old Honeychurch monument in the church at Aveton Gifford, the head and mullets are on a bend arg. and the field is gu.
 683 This should be three fusils, not two as printed.
 687 The impalement of Worthe and Strode may be still seen in St. Mary's Plympton.
